

New Zealand volunteers needed

Alumni network coordinators

Development and Alumni are looking for volunteers who can help reconnect regional and common interest networks around the world.

Alumni network participants provide valuable feedback to the University on how to serve alumni, what type of information alumni wish to receive, what connections they wish to make, and how they wish to participate in University life. This, in turn, helps the University.

As a network member, you can contribute to issues facing the University, develop valuable skills as a volunteer, meet with Griffith University administrators and academics who travel to your area and stay in touch with fellow alumni.

You can contribute as a network member by:

- assisting to organise professional development and/or social events for alumni in your area
- host a fundraising event
- be a guest speaker at alumni events
- assisting with local student recruitment initiatives
- mentoring
- assisting new graduates with job placements

You can join a specific network when you update your details. Click on the 'Update your details' button at the top of the page.

Please let us know if you are interested in coordinating an alumni network in New Zealand or any other region.
